How Much Does it Cost?

Few people, upon entering a place of business, purchase the first item examined without first checking the cost of the article. Most folks pride themselves on their ability to "spot a bargain." This,of course, is normal behavior.

However, when considering a church home adequate to guide the family, raise the children, and secure the foundation of the home too many fine people overlook the important fact that it will cost very heavily to maintain a Bible-governed, Christ-led church.

Many churches are available which will ease our conscience at little or no expense -financially or otherwise. This is one basic problem with our nation today -- we are simply not willing to "pay the price" to secure the proper things.

You see, dad, it may cost you your family pride to leave a church in which your parents were reared, not that they were wrong but because the church has not left the basic guidelines of the Bible and the high ideals of your parents, and there is little you can do to correct the spiritual deterioration.

The real tragedy is this:living for the present and taking no serious thought for our actions, but nonetheless the seed sown, good or bad, produces a harvest.

We may pay dearly for failure to act properly. The payment could be a rebellious, long hairedpill-popping, profanity spitting male child -- your son. Or an alcoholic daughter void of responsibility or usefulness even to herself. Then, the ugly monster "divorce" may show its three headed form. However, it does not have to be this way.God

TOO LATE?

Lesson for June 6, 1971

Background Scripture: Isaiah 30; 31; 32:16-18; 37:5-7.
Devotional Reading: Psalms 46

A teenage girl is afraid to face her parents, Last evening she had come home from a party a whole hour late. She thought she could sneak in without anyone hearing, but as she got to the top of the steps, she saw her father and has promised that the gates of hell shall not stop the advance of His church and God keeps His word. You, my friend, have the choice to make.

Where can you go where the Bible is still honored, obeyed, and preached. Yes I said preached, without fear or favor? Where can you take your children for spiritual and moral guidance without fear of them being induced to embrace immoral permissiveness. Where can you go yourself to rest your weary head and feet you are pleasing God? There are no bargains" in God's church. If you wish the favor and grace of God upon you and your family find the church that honors God above men, preaches the Bible as God's Holy Word, and proclaims Jesus as the Saviour of men and join it. You will never regret it.

Rev. E. W. Lucas, Pastor
Bible Baptist Church
Appomattox, Va. 24522

heard him say, "We'll talk about it in the morning." She knew what that meant. "Please, God," she prayed, "don't let them be mad."

The Infrequent Prayer

A young adult is faced with a written examination that will either qualify him or disqualify him as an accountant. Though he wants the job, he has been "goofing-off" in preparing for the examination. Now at last the day of examination is here and he is afraid he's going to fail. He hasn't prayed in years, but now he asks God to get him through successfully.

A middle aged woman's eyes are getting very heavy and her thoughts become fuzzy. In a few moments there would be complete unconsciousness and then the operation would commence, It was a serious operation and she was afraid. With her last few moments of consciousness she prayed: "Our Father who art . . . hallowed be thy name . . . Thy kingdom . . . come . . . thy . . . will be . . . done . . ." King Hezekiah of Judah, knowing that he and his people had drifted away from their dependence upon God, prayed: "So now, O Lord our God, save us from his hand (an enemy), that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou alone art God," I can't help being a bit amused with this prayer. Instead of coming right out and saying, "Lord, help us, we're in a terrible mess," he tries to give the impression that it is really God's reputation among nonbelievers about which he is concerned. This would be like the teenage girl asking God to keep her father from becoming angry because it would be bad on her mother's nerves, or the young man asking to pass the exam so that he could continue paying on his church pledge, or the woman asking for a successful operation so that she won't be abother to the hospital nurses. Certainly God isn't fooled by these clever deceptions.

Why Too Late

What about Hezekiah and the people of Judah? Wasn't it too late for them to return to God? Wasn't this prayer the last resort of desperate sinners?

Much depends upon what we mean by "too late." If we mean "too late" to reestablish their relationship with God, the answer is that it is never too late for that. Remember the one thief who hung on a cross next to Jesus? In a few hours he would be dead, but it was not "too late" for Jesus to assure him, "Today you will be with me in paradise."

If we mean "too late" to ask God for help, the answer must again be "No."

If, however, we mean "too late" to turn back the clock and undo what we have done, the answer may be "Yes, it is too late for that." For the teenager girl it was "too late" to change the fact that she had been careless with her time. For the young adult it was "too late" to make up for the lost opportunities to study. For the woman in the hospital there was no turning back the clock as if the illness had never happened. With Hezekiah and his people there could be no magic that suddenly would wipe clean the slate and instantly transform this sinful nation into a nation of God-fearing people.

Yet, it was not "too late" for any of these people. There was still time to turn to God and receive His help in their needs, seeing through the troubles they had brought upon themselves, It is never "too late" to pray.
